Introduction

In 2020 the global pandemic is changing the world as we know it.

As we look back to Eurochild’s activities in 2019, we know that our past achievements will be put to the test in the coming months and years.

Leaders across Europe are taking action, first, to save lives and second, to save livelihoods. The recovery will be long and hard. Collaboration and coordination across countries will be more important than ever. The European Union has an opportunity to show its true value.

COVID-19 presents low health risk to children. But children will be profoundly impacted by this crisis. We are seeing a deepening of existing inequalities. Children and families already facing hardship before the pandemic are ill equipped to cope with its consequences. Reports of increased domestic violence and child abuse are alarming. Many families are struggling to make ends. Home schooling is especially challenging for those without internet or living in cramped conditions. Mental health concerns for children and adolescents are likely to escalate. Children in public care and care leavers are particularly vulnerable, stretching the capacity of child protection systems.

During this deeply worrying time, Eurochild has an important role to bring visibility to the plight of children throughout Europe. The network also needs to inform the response, ensuring that the economic stimuli that follow, take account of children’s perspectives. Indeed if efforts to rebuild Europe are built on a full understanding of children’s rights, our continent will be fairer and more resilient to shocks in the future. Children are our greatest asset. We should not be fearful for their future. We must equip them with the necessary tools to thrive in a rapidly changing and increasingly inter-connected world.

Eurochild is an extraordinary community of individuals and organisations united by a common mission to fight for children’s rights. We have achieved much over the years. I am proud that, thanks in part to our campaigning, children emerged as a high priority for the EU in the 2019 change-over. There is a strong inter-group on children’s rights in the European Parliament, and a Vice-President of the European Commission charged with the design of a comprehensive EU child rights strategy. Work on an EU Child Guarantee Initiative also gathered momentum.

I am also proud that Eurochild is leading by example on how to listen to, and involve children directly. Our exit from this crisis will be more robust and sustainable, if adults take the time to inform children and involve them actively in decisions.

The crisis will require Eurochild to redirect its efforts and adapt to new challenges. But our successes of last year – as documented in this Annual Report – provide a strong foundation on which to build. There has never been a more important time to defend children’s rights.

The change Eurochild wants to see

Goal 1 – We want to see an end to child poverty & social exclusion in Europe

Goal 2 – We want to see an end to institutional care for all children in Europe

Goal 3 – We want to see more recognition & understanding of children’s rights in political discourse
Ending child poverty in Europe

Almost 23 million children - that’s one in four - are at risk of poverty or social exclusion across the European Union (Eurostat, 2018).

This rate is critically high in a number of countries, namely Romania, Bulgaria, Greece and Italy. Worryingly child poverty is increasing in countries usually associated with strong welfare systems, including France, Denmark, Sweden and Finland.

Eradicating child poverty in Europe is not simple, but it is a goal to which Eurochild remains committed.

The European Semester is the EU’s economic, social and employment policy framework that influences national policies through a yearly cycle. Together with 29 members, Eurochild assessed how country reports reflect the situation of children’s rights in 22 countries and published alternative recommendations on the most urgent priorities. Our analysis supports the efforts of the European Commission. In particular officials responsible for Croatia, Estonia, France, Malta and Slovenia acknowledged the value of our inputs. The report “New opportunities for Investing in Children” was also used to gather support from Member States’ Permanent Representatives to the EU for the European Child Guarantee initiative. Many members are using the report in their national advocacy efforts.

In November 2019, Eurochild shared its recommendations at a high-level political roundtable Towards No Child Poverty in Europe 2030 in the European Parliament. Eurochild joined forces with Bertelsmann Stiftung, as well as allied Members of European Parliament to highlight the need for integrated approaches to address child poverty across Europe. Eurochild members from Austria, Denmark, Finland and France brought inputs to the discussions.

Eurochild joined forces with a wider EU Alliance for Investing in Children to pressure the European Council for more political commitment to children.

Owing to its success in uniting civil society to fight child poverty, Eurochild’s member Albero della Vita co-led a similar initiative in Italy where 3 in 10 children face poverty. They celebrated its first anniversary conference in January 2020. Eurochild staff presented how EU funds and policies can be used to help Italy tackle child poverty.

We take the issue of child well-being and rights seriously, in the context of the European semester but also of the European funds. The underlying socio-economic conditions in outer-most regions of France are far from being optimal. As a consequence, in our Country Report for France, Education/Health/Youth policy issues were highlighted as priority needs for investment linked to the Structural Funds.

Child-proofing the European Union’s future budget

Eurochild is concerned that the EU’s next seven-year EU budget or Multiannual Financial Framework (MFF) prioritises investment in children. We want to make sure EU money supports efforts to tackle child poverty, social exclusion and the transition from institutional to family and community-based care. We reviewed the proposals of the European Commission and provided detailed amendments. Many of our suggestions were taken up by the European Parliament.

The key achievements include:

• setting a specific indicator to measure how the ESF+ is reaching children under 18 as beneficiaries;
• increased allocations to social inclusion;
• strengthening the meaningful participation of civil society and service users in the design, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of the EU-funded programmes. In addition, in line with the ESF+, 2% of the funds have been specifically earmarked for capacity building of civil society in the Parliament’s mandate.

The Multiannual Financial Framework for 2021-2027 is still under negotiation at the time of writing of this report.

The Child Guarantee

The European Parliament’s proposal for the next ESF+ calls explicitly for the establishment of a “Child Guarantee”, with an additional allocation EUR 5.9 billion. Its position calls for EU Member States to allocate at least 5% of their ESF+ resources to implement the European Child Guarantee, ensuring children’s equal access to free healthcare, free education, free childcare, decent housing and adequate nutrition.

Eurochild is actively contributing to shaping the Child Guarantee.

The Child Guarantee aims to tackle child poverty in the EU.

The Child Guarantee

No child in poverty, that’s what we are fighting for. Ending child poverty and increasing opportunities for all young Europeans is paramount to reducing inequalities.

The properly funded ESF+ is crucial to the implementation of the European Pillar of Social Rights and will contribute to the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals.

Agnes Jongerius, Member of European Parliament and Spokesperson on Employment and Social Affairs.

We provided input to the feasibility study ensuring that many members could contribute to reviewing reports and participating in the workshops. We also helped to ensure children’s voices were heard as part of this study.

Tackling inequality in a child’s first months and years

The seeds of inequality are sown in a child’s first months and years. As Eurochild advocates for tackling child poverty and social exclusion, we cannot ignore the influence of care, nutrition and support to a child in their first months and years. As such, Eurochild is targeting these first years in its upcoming advocacy campaign on Early Childhood Development (ECD), in collaboration with the International Step by Step Association.

The purpose of the campaign is to influence public policies and spending so that all families – but particularly those living with adversity – get the support they need to provide a healthy, safe and nurturing environment for their youngest children. It is focused on children under the age of 6, with a particular emphasis on the first 1,000 days (0-3 years).

In partnership with the European Public Health Alliance and the Roma Education Fund, we intend to build a broad network of civil society organisations representing beneficiaries such as families with children with disabilities, families from Roma communities and migrant families. The campaign partners collectively reach hundreds, if not thousands, of member organisations with expertise in public health, early years workforce and children’s rights.

With financial support provided by the Early Childhood Program at Open Society Foundations, the campaign, to be launched in mid-2020, will run until the end of 2021, with the possibility of extension until 2023.

Aims of the campaign:

• Increase political visibility of ECD at EU level;
• Help to channel more EU funds towards ECD investment, as a means of achieving the EU’s political goal of reducing child poverty;
• Build capacity of national civil society to leverage EU influence and funding to support advocacy for better ECD policies and services at national level.

Civil society partners in 10 countries have been selected to run the campaign nationally: Spain, Portugal, France, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, Finland, Ireland, Serbia, North Macedonia.

The campaign’s impact will be measured by the visibility of early childhood development in EU policy & funding proposals, including for example, the European Child Guarantee and the European Semester; and the extent to which these tools are used by local civil society to accelerate reform & influence public budgets at national level.
Celebrating seven years of successful advocacy to end institutions and strengthen families

Over seven years, Eurochild coordinated the Opening Doors for Europe’s Children campaign that ran across 16 European countries to end institutional care and strengthen families.

At its closing event on 15 January 2020 in Brussels, the international partners – Hope and Homes for Children, SOS Children’s Villages, FICE Europe and International Foster Care Organisation, national coordinators and European policymakers reflected on the lessons and achievements.

Many campaign countries, such as Bulgaria, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Moldova, Romania and Ukraine, are increasingly prioritising child protection and deinstitutionalisation. It is particularly encouraging to observe the number of children living in family-based foster care slowly exceeding the number of children living in institutions.

Our joined efforts with civil society organisations within the campaign led us to strengthen our influence on the government and, as a result, the development and approval of the National Strategy on Reforming the System of Institutional Care and Upbringing of Children for 2017-2026 and Action Plan, which is a huge step towards the implementation of deinstitutionalisation in Ukraine.

Halyna Postoliuk, the HHC Regional Operations Director, Eastern Europe and Central Asia

The creation and adoption of laws have been a very important part of the reform of the social protection system in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Implementation of these laws will put us one step closer to ensure the placement of children in a family environment.

Mirza Avdić, Development Coordinator, Hope and Homes for Children Bosnia and Herzegovina

The communication between policymakers, stakeholders and NGOs has improved a lot in the past year. The Estonian Ministry of Social affairs has involved all institutions and organisations in the field of alternative care (state institutions and NGOs) in the problem-solving, planning and decision-making processes.

Helen Saarnik, Project Coordinator, Estonian Child Welfare Union
At the European level, the European Semester process is now used effectively to push for reforms towards deinstitutionalisation. All EU campaign countries country reports refer to the policies for the transition from institutional to family and community-based care or inclusive education for the 2021-27 programming period. The future EU budget 2021-2027 prioritises the transition from institutional to family-and community-based care, promotes social inclusion, and strives to improve policy coherence and protection of children’s rights, especially those at risk or in care.

We are committed to continuing that work together in a collaborative way. We need powerful advocacy, we need the voices of young children who are in care and have left care, the voices of families who have been separated... these are part of the solution of ending institutional care.

Jana Hainsworth, Secretary General, Eurochild

According to the external evaluation of the campaign, national coordinators expressed pride in their newfound ability to connect with EU officials and use EU tools to support their advocacy. The factsheets featuring key information from each campaign country played an invaluable role in supporting EU country desk officers in their dialogue with governments. Through its innovative advocacy of bringing national expertise to bear on European recommendations, the Opening Doors campaign has left an indelible mark on the EU’s role as a champion of deinstitutionalisation.

Ensuring EU funds remain a catalyst for reforming child protection systems

Over the last decade, hundreds of millions of euro from the EU’s budget\(^1\) have been spent on reforms in child protection and welfare systems both inside and outside the EU, contributing to the transition from institutional to family- and community-based care.

Eurochild has been influencing negotiations of the next EU budget negotiations in order to maintain, strengthen and expand the attention dedicated to child protection and deinstitutionalisation reforms.

Under the draft funding regulation for the European Social Fund Plus (2021-2027) countries will be obliged to invest in tackling children in poverty or social exclusion as well as to develop family- and community-based care services and move away from institutional care. The EU will also require Member States to involve civil society organisations in planning and monitoring the use of funds.

Thanks in part to Eurochild’s advocacy, the European Parliament reintroduced deinstitutionalisation as the investment priority in the 2021-2027 European Regional Development Fund (ERDF) regulation.

The Common Provisions Regulation provides overall guidance on the use of EU funds. Here too, Eurochild helped to ensure the proposals refer to family-based and community-based services and protection of children’s rights as guaranteed under the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights, the UN Convention on the rights of persons with disabilities and the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child.

Eurochild’s advocacy efforts have also targeted the future Instrument for Pre-Accession Assistance III (IPA III) which supports structural reforms in countries from the pre-accession region. Many of these countries also have a high prevalence of children in institutional settings. Together with our partners in the Opening Doors for Europe’s Children campaign, we have tried to ensure that the transition from institutional to family- and community-based care remains a priority and that involvement of civil society is guaranteed.

Our job in 2020 is to ensure the changes we have influenced in the proposals, see the light of day when the 2021-2027 EU budget is finally approved. After that we can work with our members to monitor implementation of EU funding programmes, to ensure the guidance is how the various Regulations are implemented in practice.

Promoting and protecting the rights of children in migration

Children in migration are denied access to many of the rights required under the UN Convention on the rights of the child. Eurochild collaborates with civil society partners to draw attention to their plight and to push for more and better protection.

FORUM for Unaccompanied Minors

Member organisation Fondazione l’Albero della Vita (Italy) coordinated the EU project “FORUM for Unaccompanied Minors: transfer of knowledge for professionals to increase foster care”, aimed at expanding family-based care for unaccompanied migrant children. In April 2019 Eurochild coordinated a roundtable discussion in the European Parliament hosted by MEPs Miriam Dalli from Malta and former MEP Cécile Kyenge from Italy. Read more about our work with the FORUM project here.

“\nThe effective protection of children in migration means that not only do we provide appropriate housing, timely appointment of guardians, it means that we make sure that their education is provided for and make sure that there is timely integration of these children into our societies.\

Miriam Dalli, Member of the European Parliament

Initiative for Children in Migration

Eurochild also stepped up its engagement with the Initiative for Children in Migration, an informal collaboration among NGOs and international governmental organisations coordinating advocacy on EU law and policy impacting children in migration. Together with Save the Children Europe and Terres des Hommes International Federation, Eurochild developed a position paper on Promoting and Protecting the rights of children in migration through the multiannual financial framework 2021-2027. We convened a roundtable in the European Parliament, hosted by MEP Javier Moreno Sánchez, and teamed up with Child Protection Hub to deliver a webinar on the subject.

Thanks in part to our advocacy, the European Parliament is championing the rights of children in migration. MEPs have called on EU funding to support services for the reception and integration of migrant children. They also called for the Asylum and Migration Fund to be used in line with the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child and the principle of the best interest of the child.

New EU leaders commit to putting children at the heart of Europe

2019 was a special year for the EU institutions with a change of guard at the European Parliament following elections in May and a new European Commission in autumn.

The year of change provided a perfect opportunity of campaigning to ensure our future leaders in the institutions commit to putting children at the heart of Europe. Ahead of the European Parliament elections, Eurochild, in coalition with over a dozen children’s rights organisations and its own members, campaigned for a Vote for Children.

The Vote for Children campaign gathered signatures of support from candidates who committed to become Child Rights Champions by upholding children’s rights if elected. Eurochild members and children from our Children’s Council and National Forums joined the campaign actions to urge candidates across the EU-28 nations to become Child Rights Champions.

Eurochild’s involvement in Vote for Children campaign had high returns in terms of outreach and visibility among the new and candidate parliamentarians. 300 candidates signed up to become Child Rights Champions. After elections, 1 in 7 European parliamentarians are Child Rights Champions. This group of Child Rights Champions are now gathered in an informal grouping of the new European Parliament as the Children’s Rights Intergroup under the co-chairs MEP Caterina Chinnici, MEP David Lega, MEP Saskia Bricmont and MEP Hilde Vautmans.

First vote of support to children’s rights

The new supportive grouping established their presence with the first resolution voted in the European Parliament on the occasion of the 30th anniversary of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child in November. Many of Eurochild’s priority demands were raised in the resolution which addresses the need for meaningful forms of child participation, and investing in public services for children, including support for the establishment of a European Child Guarantee.

“The European Parliament calls on the Commission and Member States to adopt the Bucharest EU Children’s Declaration which highlights that “the culture of child participation can be built at all levels - family, community, local, regional, national and European - and can bring short- and long-term benefits to the society.”

Campaigning for an EU Commissioner for Children

Did you know that there is an EU Commissioner for Fisheries but no Commissioner for Children?

With the opportunity of a new European Commission taking over, Eurochild launched a petition to gather signatures supporting a new role at the European Commission – A Commissioner for Children. With a political leader, the EU would prioritise fighting the many challenges faced by children.

The petition letter to Donald Tusk, President of the European Council, stated that the role of a “European Commissioner for Children would be to champion the rights of children within the EU, accession countries and in its external action. The Commissioner would ensure all policies and EU funds have a positive impact on children’s lives.”

The campaign may not have achieved its goal of a Child Commissioner, but it raised debate and attention among media, civil society and EU policy experts, and a modest number of signatures within a span of just over two months.

We are encouraged by the prominence of children’s rights in several key portfolios of the new Commissioners. Most importantly Vice President Dubravka Šuica from Croatia takes the portfolio of democracy and demography, leading the development of a comprehensive strategy on the rights of the child and Nicolas Schmit who is to lead on the coordination of the European Child Guarantee initiative to ensure children have access to basic services.

The campaign engaged peer networks who joined in support, as well as engaged citizens who became actively interested in the role of the EU in children’s rights following the campaign.

We helped Eurochild build a tongue-in-cheek landing site and an online petition. The team focused on the seemingly incongruous fact that there is no EU Commissioner focused on children yet there is one focused on fish - this was a surprising fact that also plays into the fact that many Europeans don’t have a solid grasp on what the Commission does or is responsible for.

Edelman, a leading global communications firm offered pro-bono guidance for the Child Commissioner campaign.

First Children’s Summit paves way for future of Europe debate

The first ever EU Children’s Summit was held under the leadership of the Romanian EU Presidency in May. Taking place a few days in advance of the Future of Europe Summit in Sibiu, Romania, the Children’s Summit sought to gather children’s opinions on the Europe they want and to discuss how to encourage children’s participation. It was organised by the National Authority on the Protection of Children’s Rights and Adoption in partnership with UNICEF Romania. Eurochild contributed to gathering children’s views and ensuring their active involvement at the summit itself. H.E. Marie-Louise Coleiro Preca, Eurochild President was invited to deliver a keynote speech.

She was joined by delegations of children from five countries, Malta, Cyprus, Estonia, Croatia and the UK (Scotland) who shared examples of participation from local and national levels to inspire the audience of design-makers, experts and leaders. Eurochild could also share its expertise gathered from its 2018 flagship conference in Opatija, Croatia on children’s participation in public decision-making.

Two young representatives from the Children’s Council in Opatija, Croatia who had been involved in preparing Eurochild’s conference spoke about their work. Sharon, a former Eurochild Children’s Council member shared the results of the Europe Kids Want survey, conducted by Eurochild and UNICEF over the span of a year to gather views of children. According to the Europe Kids Want survey, launched by the European Parliament and supported by Eurochild and UNICEF, only 8% of children respondents feel that adults listen to their opinions when making decisions in their community.

Children are agents of change, in their own lives, the lives of our communities, our countries and our world. The right of children to participate is key to achieving access to all of their rights: such as protection from violence; from poverty and discrimination; and, tackling today’s environmental challenges, amongst others.

H.E. Marie-Louise Coleiro Preca, President of Eurochild

We are a significant part of Europe’s population and we are writing our own story through marches, vocalization, and representation....

...We are asking that support for child participation platforms and forums be established at national and EU levels to inform children on political decisions and measures implemented by various national and international programs and projects, but also as a mechanism of scrutinizing children’s opinions on various issues.

The views and ideas expressed by children were compiled as The Bucharest EU Children’s Declaration adopted on 7 May at the Children’s Summit to guide European leaders.

Eurochild used the declaration to demand more structured mechanisms enabling children to engage with decision-makers at local, national and European levels.
Meet the new Eurochild Children’s Council

The 2019 Eurochild General Assembly saw the transition from the very first Eurochild Children’s Council (ECC) to its second group, whose mandate runs until 2021. The new Children’s Council is composed of 12 children from 12 countries aged 11-16, each supported by an organisation from within Eurochild’s membership and selected for their active engagement on issues of local or national concern, from bullying, to climate change, child participation and child poverty.

The members are: Sioda (Children’s Rights Alliance/ Foroige, Ireland), Eetu (Tampere Children’s Parliament/ Central Union for Child Welfare, Finland), Yevhen (Edukids, Ukraine), Andreas (PCCPWC - Cyprus Children’s Parliament, Cyprus), Victor (Children in Wales, UK), Ranya (Legal-Informational Centre, Slovenia), Martina (The Malta Foundation for the Wellbeing of Society, Malta), Una (Child Rights Centre/ Club DX, Serbia), Milena (NNC/ SafeNet, Bulgaria), Petra (Society “our children” Opatija, Croatia), June (University of Deusto, Spain) and Kārg (Estonian Union for Child Welfare, Estonia).

It has been a busy year for the Children’s Council as they raised issues with national and European parliamentarians, reached out to improve awareness of children’s rights among other young people, and strengthened means of child participation locally and at European level.

In October, the Children’s Council attended meetings in Brussels to begin the process of planning the 2020 conference, scheduled to take place in November 2020 in Hämeenlinna, Finland. They also worked with the secretariat to develop Eurochild’s future child participation strategy addressing, among others, how to involve children from diverse backgrounds in our work.

The Children’s Council returned to Brussels in November to mark the 30th anniversary celebration of the UNCRC on Universal Children’s Day at the European Parliament. They have also been helping to develop the National Eurochild Forums and advising on a European Commission study on child participation.

Nationally, the 12 activists ran many projects including carrying out research into social media usage amongst teens in Ireland, and meeting with Cypriot decision makers to discuss ways of addressing child poverty. We are looking forward to collaborating further with the current and former members of the Eurochild Children’s Council, and in particular to supporting more child led initiatives.

Visions for Europe

Two members of Eurochild Children’s Council were asked to share their visions for Europe, which was published in Euractiv’s 20th anniversary special.

“I believe that with the right circumstances, Europe could be a paradise. Child poverty can finally be eliminated, climate change can be stopped, education systems will change for the interest of the children and all children will have good healthcare.”

Andreas, Cyprus

“In 20 years, I am convinced that our Europe will start to fully prioritise education and emotional well-being.”

Victor, UK
Children take the high seat at the European Parliament

On 20 November 2019, the European Parliament hosted a high level event in celebration of the 30th anniversary of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child. President of the European Parliament David Sassoli opened the event, recalling the Parliament’s demand for a new EU strategy on the rights of the child. Her Majesty the Queen of the Belgians was the Guest of Honour. In their presence, an interactive set of speeches and comments allowed participants, young and old to share their views.

President Marie-Louise Coleiro Preca urged EU leaders to not consider their work done, demanding attention to tackling child poverty, children in migration and hearing the voices of children. Sioda, from the Eurochild Children’s Council delivered a speech on behalf of the ECC, along with a panel of adults and children.

Eurochild worked in collaboration with other child rights organisations to ensure meaningful participation of children. The Eurochild Children’s Council joined other delegations of children to represent their views and ideas in meetings with European parliamentarians raising issues of local and European concern, and facilitated live interviews with MEPs Saskia Bricmont and Dragoș Pîslaru. A small delegation of children together with the President of Eurochild participated in a discussion with the EP Intergroup on Children’s Rights and the French Secretary of State for Child Protection Adrien Taquet, in which they highlighted the need to involve children more systematically in decisions.

Redefining power with the Council of Europe

In autumn 2019 Eurochild in cooperation with its member University of Central Lancashire supported the participation of 13 children (aged 11-18 ) from 10 countries in the Conference ‘Redefining power: Strengthening the rights of the child’ hosted by the Council of Europe.

The conference focused on five topics: child participation, the power of technology, speaking up against violence against children, protecting children’s data and supporting children in contact with the justice system.

The children played a vital and active role – delivering speeches and posing questions to challenge adults and governments from across Europe to do more to respect, protect and promote children’s rights.

James from Northern Ireland said that they need a platform on which to speak and be seriously listened to; and disabled activists need inclusion and accessibility. Rostyslav from Ukraine stressed the importance of children to be taught about cyber security and sexual education. Andrea from Serbia disagreed with one of the adult speakers, saying “I disagree that the opinion of a child should not be taken seriously because they can change their minds. Judges can also change their minds. Children should be listened to.”

Tools and training to help realise child participation

We Are Here - Child Participation Toolbox

In collaboration with the Learning for Well-being Foundation, Eurochild produced a practical set of tools ‘We Are Here – Child Participation Toolbox’. The toolkit will help implement meaningful children’s participation and encourage collaboration between generations. The Toolbox builds on a child rights perspective to support meaningful child participation in a variety of settings. It builds on an understanding that participation can come in many forms, and through a variety of engaging activities helps prepare children for these different situations. Uniquely, the Toolbox also offers tools to help find meaningful ways for children and adults to work together, thereby contributing towards building a culture of child participation across Europe as well as greater understanding and collaboration between generations.

Eurochild looks forward to use this toolkit with its members, allies in government and inter-governmental bodies to help realise child participation.

Final results: Europe Kids Want

Together with UNICEF, we co-developed a survey with children to gain an insight into the views and concerns of children around the continent. Nearly 20,000 responses were received from children in 48 European countries, including every member state of the European Union.

The top three recommendations from children to the EU are helping to keep peace in the world; protecting the environment and helping to make sure everyone is treated equally. Two thirds of the children and young people are positive about diversity, which is one of the core values of the EU. Fake news and artificial intelligence are new areas where the EU has to ensure children’s rights are safeguarded.

The results were shared far and wide with decision-makers to act upon the recommendations including the European Parliament, Bucharest Children’s Summit and the Council of Europe conference on Redefining power.
Working to engage children locally

As part of our commitment to developing child participation practices across our membership we established National Eurochild Forums (NEFs) in countries where our members are based. Each NEF is made up of between 15-25 individuals aged 10-18 who work together in their national contexts to investigate and gather the views of children at local level, with the aim of influencing national and EU decision makers. National Eurochild Forums were initially piloted in Estonia (Estonian Union for Child Welfare), Malta (Malta Foundation for the Wellbeing of Society) and Bulgaria (National Network for Children) and as of 2019, one additional forum has been established by Society “Our Children” Croatia in Croatia.

Throughout 2019, the forums in Estonia, Malta and Bulgaria held various activities to launch their work of gathering views of children, consulting with groups of children to strengthen child participation in their own work. In Bulgaria, members have been reporting on the views of children from across the country on a wide range of subjects including the European Elections and inclusive education.

In Malta following a year-long consultation exercise among 2,400 children in 48 schools across Malta and Gozo, the Malta Foundation for the Wellbeing of Society published a 70-page report from the project ‘You Matter No Matter What’. “The findings reveal how children feel happy and fulfilled when they are listened to, how desperately they struggled to compete with other demands on adults’ time.” – Dr Ruth Farrugia, Malta Foundation for the Well-being of Society

You Matter No Matter What

The Estonians, meanwhile have been working on developing a platform called Märka Last (Notice a Child) which is a digital meeting place where children around Estonia can publish stories, photos, videos, articles and opinions. Importantly the platform is a child-led initiative that will continue to develop according to the ideas of the children themselves.

The main idea from the beginning was not to have anything ready-made but instead to create a starting point and a platform which grows with youngsters themselves.

Kristi Mark, Estonian Union for Child Welfare
How Eurochild contributes to making that change happen

- Influencing people with power & supporting our members to influence
- Gathering evidence & harnessing members’ practice & knowledge
- Engaging children and young people in our work
- Working in partnership & alliances with other organisations & networks
Bringing the children’s rights sector together

Eurochild’s General Assembly & Members Day had a record number of over 140 participants, including children and young people from the outgoing and incoming Eurochild Children’s Council. 15 new members were endorsed, growing our network to 176 members in 34 countries.

This annual gathering marked the first year of implementing our new Strategic Plan 2019-2021, a crucial year for the European Union, the 30th anniversary of the UNCRC, as well as the 15th anniversary of Eurochild. The meeting provided opportunities to share experiences and gain new knowledge in specific topics linked to Eurochild’s strategic goals.

The GA was very well organized, well-structured and time efficient. I felt that all relevant topics were addressed well and qualitative participation of members was clearly felt. I got a good insight into how Eurochild is structured and how the organisation and General Assembly works and all the impressive activities being undertaken towards implementing Eurochild’s mission and vision.

Maximilian Ullrich, National Coalition for the implementation of the UN CRC Austria

High level representatives from the European Commission were invited for a special session ahead of the General Assembly to help members reflect on child rights advocacy in a changing Europe. Members actively contributed to workshops on influencing, child participation and Eurochild’s network development. The influencing workshops focused on Eurochild’s European Elections campaign, the next EU budget, the upcoming campaign on Early Childhood Development and children in institutional care. The child participation workshops reviewed implementation of Eurochild’s child participation strategy and gathered members’ input on building structural mechanisms for child participation in EU institutions. To progress the development of the network, we evaluated membership communications and held a workshop on ethical standards.

Eurochild members brought a huge breadth of topics to the open space session, sparking an energetic session on topics ranging from child participation to fake news, from climate change to cross-generational working.

Partnering with Dentons for legal assistance

Eurochild entered into a strategic partnership with the world’s largest law firm, Dentons, enabling Eurochild and its members to access operational and strategic legal assistance on a pro bono basis. The partnership formalizes a relationship which began in 2018. Dentons and the member firms of the Nextlaw Referral Network have already provided over 200 hours of pro bono assistance to both the Eurochild Secretariat in Brussels and Eurochild members across Europe.

Dentons is fully committed to making a meaningful contribution to the communities in which we live and work, through our pro bono legal work. We are excited about our new strategic partnership with Eurochild. Together we will help protect children’s rights across the Continent.

Tomasz Dąbrowski, CEO of Dentons Europe
Campaigning with our members across Europe

Members actively engaged in the development and success of Eurochild’s campaigns throughout 2019, including the campaign on the Vote for Children ahead of the European Parliament elections.

Spain – Plataforma de Infancia mobilises political support

La Plataforma de Infancia joined Eurochild's Vote for Children campaign to achieve a European Parliament committed to children’s rights, calling on Spanish European Parliamentary candidates to become Child Rights Champions. Eurochild supported their event on 14 May, where they invited representatives of the main national political parties to speak about children’s rights.

Among those invited to speak, Susana Solís, Mónica Silvana and Antonio López-Istúriz were elected MEPs. A total of 17 Spanish Child Rights Champions were elected from different political parties ensuring that children get the visibility they deserve in the next mandate of the European Parliament.

In Malta and Croatia our member organisations involved children in the campaign action and got many candidates to sign up to become Child Rights Champions. In Malta, two roundtable events were hosted by the Malta Foundation for the Wellbeing of Society offering opportunities for dialogue between children and candidate parliamentarians. Children raised several issues ranging from accessible healthcare and environmental concerns to (online) bullying. In Croatia, Society ‘Our Children’ Opatija hosted a special event with Children’s City Council Opatija to encourage dialogue between children and MEP candidates urging them to stand up for children’s rights if elected.
Supporting members to influence

Slovenian Ministers commit to greater children’s participation

In November, Eurochild member the Slovenian Association of Friends of Youth organised a conference Citizens of the Future with the support of Eurochild. It was attended by Slovenian Ministers, NGO representatives and 150 young people aged 13-17. The conference was co-facilitated by Edvina, a former member of the Eurochild Children’s Council. The event culminated in a letter of cooperation on children’s participation being signed by the Slovenian Minister for Education, Science, and Sport, the Minister for Labour, Family, Social Affairs and Equal Opportunities, and representatives from the National Children’s Parliament and Slovenian Association of Friends of Youth. The letter highlighted a strong political commitment to children’s right to participate: “the participation of children in decision making on the individual, family and organisational level as well as in politics and society, is essential for the exercising of children’s rights.”

In 2019, Eurochild supported two member-led events: Citizens of the Future hosted by Slovenian Association of Friends of Youth and the Vote for Children event hosted by Plataforma de Infancia in Spain. This support contributes to members influence at a national level and strengthens the link to EU policy-making and political processes.

Advocating with our national partner networks

National Partner Networks (NPNs) are networks of children’s rights organisations who are crucial to strengthening Eurochild’s voice in Brussels and in the Member States capitals. The current 23 NPNs play an important role in linking EU and national/regional policies relevant for children and young people.

In 2019 the NPNs met in Brussels in September, enabling mutual exchange and learning in particular about the newly elected European Parliament and new structures of the European Commission. NPNs provide valuable input to Eurochild’s work on the European Semester and the child guarantee. They are supported by updates on key EU developments, templates and advocacy toolkits and enabling their participation in key EU conferences to ensure their expertise is heard by decision-makers and policy-makers at the highest levels of decision-making.

Fighting the anti-child rights attacks

At the NPN meeting, Eurochild members in countries such as Bulgaria, Czechia, Hungary, Poland, Serbia and Slovakia shared their challenges of countering anti-child rights movements. For example, in Bulgaria disinformation campaigns have derailed adoption of important national policy reforms and undermined trust in civil society. The peer exchange offered through Eurochild is an important source of support and ideas on how to fight back. Eurochild also helps to draw attention to their concerns by connecting with European parliamentarians, co-signing letters to EU Commissioners and helping to attract media attention. The annual state of civil society report by CIVICUS, a global alliance of civil society organisations and activists dedicated to strengthening citizen action and civil society throughout the world, featured an interview with Eurochild and Child Rights Connect on these anti-child rights movements.
Eurochild could not achieve the impact it does without the extraordinary commitment of its members and the children and young people involved in our activities. A heartfelt thank you for all your contributions.

In addition, Eurochild is very grateful to its funding partners, the organisations with whom we work in partnership, our contractors and consultants. In particular we would like to thank:

Governance

The Management Board is the democratically-elected governing body responsible for leadership and strategic direction, chaired by the President. Its members reflect the geographical spread as well as the diversity of the types of organisations in membership. The Management Board is divided into sub-committees to better guide the secretariat in communications, finances, fundraising, governance, HR/staffing, membership, and children’s participation.

In April 2019, the General Assembly elected two new members of the Management Board - Uroš Brezovšek, Slovenian Association of Friends of Youth and Adrian Oros, Hope and Hopes for Children Romania.

The General Assembly elected a new Eurochild President, H.E. Marie-Louise Coleiro Preca, newly appointed Honorary member of Eurochild and President Emeritus of Malta.

H.E Coleiro Preca has dedicated her life to social well-being of the most vulnerable in society and was influential in bringing change to social policies in Malta, as Minister for Family and Social Solidarity and later as President of Malta. In 2014, she founded the Malta Foundation for the Wellbeing of Society which is a member of Eurochild and works actively with children to create spaces for them to share their views.

President Coleiro Preca took over from Hanna Heinonen, CEO of the Central Union for Child Welfare. The network is grateful to Hanna for the expertise she brought to the Management Board over seven years.

Since election, the new Board has held meetings in Brussels and in Berlin, where they took the opportunity to engage with members and officials in the government ahead of the future German EU Presidency.

In memoriam:
We bid adieu to Norah Gibbons, a committed children’s rights defender and former President of Eurochild (2016-2018) who passed away in April 2020. Norah’s expertise in child protection and governance was valued by all. The Eurochild community honours her commitment to children’s rights.
